The CS-NX5R camera case is designed to protect and organize the Sony HXR-NX5R and essential accessories. The case's unique opening has a single, durable YKK® zipper that runs the entire length of the case to provide an extra-wide opening for easily removing and replacing the camera and other case contents. The case comes with a Camera Cradle designed to secure your camera in place inside the case, even during rough travel conditions. A White Balance Card with convenient wrist strap is also included.

The CS-NX5R is made from durable abrasion-resistant 1000-denier Cordura nylon that has been treated with a protective urethane waterproof coating (DWR). The case body is constructed using ¾-inch foam and the bottom panel is reinforced with 8.0mm hollow core plastic and an extra layer of foam. The exterior bottom is lined with a layer of anti-skid Slip-Not material that provides an extra level of protection against water, dirt and grime.

The main zipper is protected by a Cordura flap to help prevent damage and keep water from entering the case. "Concealed Zippers" are used, which "reverse" the zipper facings to prevent snagging and extend life of the zippers. High-quality, bonded thread is used and double-seamed in areas that typically support more weight or are susceptible to additional wear and tear. All thread-ends are burned to prevent loose threads or running on seams.

Genuine suede is used to provide extra comfort and durability to the carrying handles and a comfortable nylon shoulder strap is included. The removable strap has steel clasps that clip to the CS-NX5R's strong, nickel-plated steel rings.

There is a full-length exterior pocket that measures, which is ideal for cables, a shotgun mic, or an optional rain cover. There's also a long slip-pocket on the back of the case that is ideal for carrying the White Balance Card (included), owner's manuals, airline tickets, and other documents.
